

Family Development Center

Roseburg, Oregon

Main Entry

The 10,000 square foot Family Development Center was constructed to provide child care for abused and at risk infants through pre-school, as well as educational classes in the parenting, drug abuse, and other counseling services. Staff involvement was very critical in the design of this facility. The ability to care for children ranging from infants through pre-school, allow for security and provide a variety of learning environments were all important design elements. The exterior set the tone for the new non-profit campus in Roseburg.
